ROBBIE NIX

Mr. Tequila,

you have been one hell of a party animal so keep on partying and being cool and you'll go very far. Those trips to C-Town were great werent they. Look me up whenever you need a party

Jimmy Walbrook

Robbie,

I'm so glad I got to know such a cute & nice guy as you. We should have got to know each other better before this year. I think you a great person
and hope to party with you before I leave.

Love ya your friend
Jessa

Robbie,

You are absolutely crazy,
I'll never forget all the times
I've seen you, but you couldn't ~~remember~~ remember it. ¹⁴⁶₁₄₆ I really enjoyed your friendship this year.
I hope we can be better friends in years to come. Good luck in everything.

Your friend,
Trent

Robbie,

To one crazy dude who can talk some french (Hal Ha!). Stay cool and only change
some of the things you do. Good luck next year.

Your friend
Mark Ellis

Robbie,

Has been a pleasure enduring the last two weeks of unbearable agony w/ you. Hope you get the hell out of here soon. No for me, seven days and is over, the big ones come soon

AMIT

Robbie,

To a god I like going Camping with I really like your friendship, keep the good work up and stay cool

Jack "gg"

Robbie,

It's been cool this year (evening & drinking).
Will party this summer.

Good Brothers

John

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Nestled in a beautiful area of Pine Mountain stands a lovely little chapel filled with a sweet spirit that is indescribable. In this chapel, the Harlan Musettes, can be found on a retreat. A time spent relaxing, practicing their music, and enjoying good fellowship. Here we become better acquainted and simply enjoy being one happy family.

Bottom row: Jody King, Mark Duff, Jonathan Pollitte, Norman Bean, William Berger, Mark Stewart, Chuck Slaven

The 1985 baseball season was one of much hard work and dedication from players, coaches, and supporters. Players worked through long practices, which concentrated on the fundamentals of baseball, and a long season of wins, losses, and long bus rides. Yet, their dedication, enthusiasm, and desire to win never weakened. As a result of this extra effort, this young team improved steadily as evidenced by an impressive showing in the district tournament. This hard work was accompanied by much preparation by Todd Murner and myself. Special recognition must go to Coach Murner and his hard work, without which the team would not have improved nearly as much. Also, appreciation must be given to local businesses and special individuals who contributed time and money to this team. With great expectations and plans of even harder work, H.H.S. looks forward to greater success in upcoming seasons.

Bob Morris, Principal

The year 1986 is on the threshold of a new century. In looking back on the last 86 years, we can recall countless inventions, discoveries, and cures. It makes us wonder what could possibly be left to discover. However, with the recent use of the Jarvik 7, the prediction that the life expectancy of man will greatly increase, the extensive use of the computer, and the outbreak of new disease, we can assume that the 21st Century will be one of the most exciting times in history.

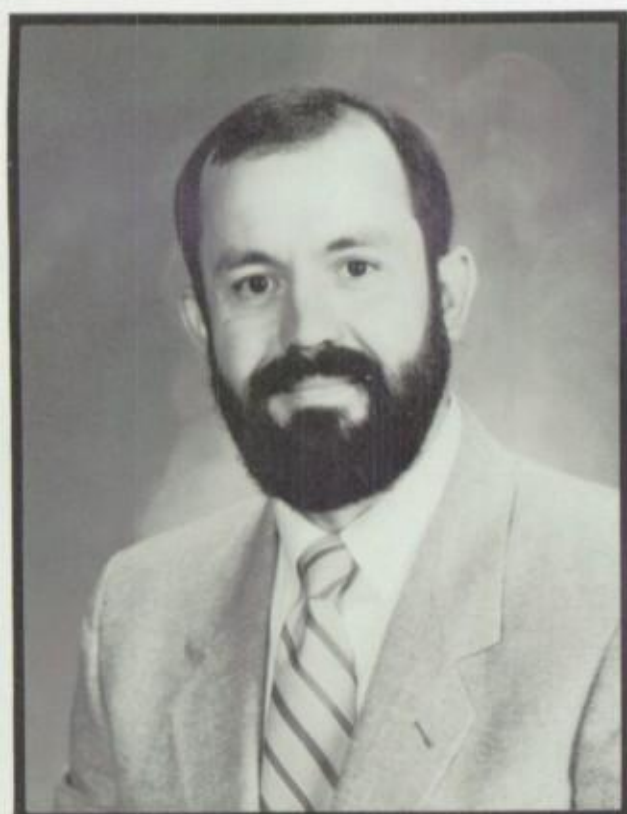

You will have the opportunity to be a valuable contributor. By the year 2001 you will have found your place in society, and I hope it will be productive, fulfilling, and rewarding.

As you leave Harlan High School and begin your venture into a new century, I pray that each of you will experience success, happiness, and peace of mind.

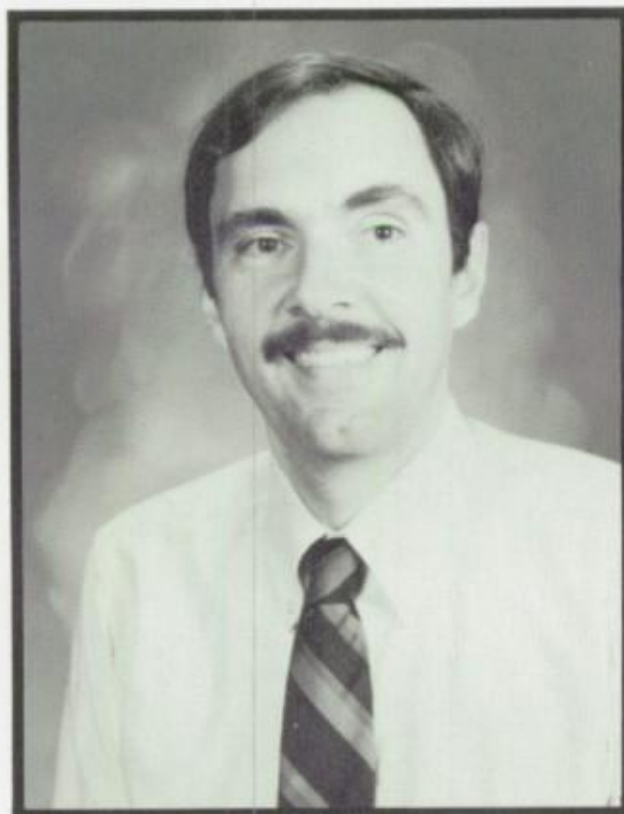

May god richly bless you all,

Superintendent's Message to Students:

In today's world of constant change there are few things that seem to last. In a short time, you will be members of the community looking back upon the time you spent in the Harlan Independent School. When you do, the photos and fact of this Black Diamond will ultimately provide you with fond memories and last a lifetime. The Harlan Independent Board and Administration are proud of our student body. We want you to have pleasant and productive lives. Whatever course your future takes, it is our sincere hope that you will feel that years here have prepared you to meet the challenge that life has presented.

Letter from the Editor:

Along with another school year comes another Black Diamond Yearbook.

Inter-staff editors, intelligent typists, skilled layout designers, and creative photographers have each contributed immeasurably to making the 1986 yearbook come alive.

I would especially like to thank our advisor Mrs. Gross, for the publication of the yearbook would not be possible without her guidance and assistance.

Finally, the Black Diamond staff would like to thank our principal, Bob Morris, and all the teachers who allowed us to be absent from class on days near our deadline dates.

Sincerely,

Editor-in-Chief

Kimberly K. Cassin

One Teacher's Tribute To Christa McAuliffe

At a crucial time in America's educational history, when school systems nationwide seemed under their most severe critical fire, and teachers' morale at an all-time low, CHRISTA McAULIFFE breezed into the arena. Children and teachers across this nation cheered.

Her youth, her intelligence, her smile and her vibrant enthusiasm radiated what she loved to do best; to make teaching and learning RELATIVE for today's students upon whose shoulders the future depends, and to make that learning experience exciting.

Christa was extraordinary, no doubt. There are thousands of caring teachers across this nation who are also extraordinary. Their day-to-day classroom thrills and spills go largely unnoticed by anyone except the students directly involved. But once she was selected to ride the monster into the heavens as a layman, she then became "all of us who teach". She exemplified the love of teaching. She became the embodiment of that which is challenging and humbling in the teaching profession. She brought the whole business right down to ground level. We all stood tall with her on her space flight, Challenger II, and wished her well.

In her own classrooms she lit a fuse in her students' minds which awakened them to intellectual pursuit. She caused them to THINK. They said on television that she encouraged them "to reach for the stars". One never realizes what enormous impact the life of a single individual can have until something of this nature happens.

From watching television accounts of her life, it appears clearly that one of her greatest talents was the easy rapport she achieved with her students by being herself and by respecting them as people.

Clearly her time and talents were not exemplified in record-keeping, pencil-pushing, hall-watching, or cafeteria-monitoring. Her energies were utilized in nurturing the minds of young men and women who will carry this nation squarely into the 21st century. SHE WAS A FULL-TIME TEACHER, proud to be just that and left alone to do the thing that she did best, "teach".

Christa's lessons from outer space certainly would have been the BOOST to education that this country needed. Her personal appearances upon her return to the cheers and adulation of youngsters from coast to coast would have been inspirational . . . even awesome. Those happenings were not to be. As it often happens with momentous events in history, her image looms large; perhaps even larger in death than in life. While the flags are still at half-staff on land and at half-mast at sea, engraved forever into the granite of this country's roster of heroes is the name, "Christa McAuliffe, TEACHER, Concord, New Hampshire."

She is gone. A nation mourns. A little New England town mourns. A school's student body mourns. A family mourns. The heavens weep for her and all who perished with her.

A little fellow in a Cincinnati kindergarten spoke eloquently but simply as he was trying to sort out his feelings regarding a teacher whom he didn't know, losing her life aboard a spacecraft which he had watched in his classroom so intently. "I'm mad at it; it broke. Teacher, tell 'em to fitz it." That is what Christa would have NASA do . . . "fitz" it and fly again. That's what "learning" is all about on all levels; trying, failing, trying again.

Christa McAuliffe has done more to upgrade the teaching profession as a noble life's work than all the recent legislative hollow edicts. Notice the reaction of the students in her New Hampshire school. They didn't express to television and newspaper reporters her "organized lesson plans", her acute awareness of time-on-task obligations". They said she was an inspirational human being. They said she was a wonderfully warm person. They said she was a marvelous teacher who made their lessons come alive. They said she made going to school both challenging and fun. She loved her students. She loved her subjects. She brought the two together in an atmosphere charged with enthusiasm and a genuine desire to "explore", to find out the who, what, where, when, why, how, how much and to what extend of things and then to ask, "Now, how does this knowledge apply to my life and those about me in such a way that we are better off?" "How does this knowledge better equip me to be a responsible adult when school corsages have faded and pages in a yearbook have yellowed to brittleness?"

Her loss IS tragic, but her legacy is terrific. For as long as there is a United States of America, the spirit of Christa McAuliffe's love of learning, love of children, and love of teaching will shine like a beacon of hope in the darkness of indifference and despair. She will, IN DEATH, forever challenge those who teach and those who learn. Her challenge is clear. "Reach for the stars". Her destiny is assured. As President Reagan told the nation . . . "she reached out to touch the face of God."

I never knew Christa until that awful explosion, Tuesday, January 28, 1986. Since that instant she has become my friend, my colleague.

While Heaven rejoices to receive her vibrant spirit, earthlings grieve. May she not rest in peace until educators fully appreciate how valuable the life of one teacher really is and look at their efforts in a new light of professionalism and respect.
